aldes, who will ride with him in the parade. The site for the flagpole offered by the Daughters of the American Revolution, through Mrs Donald McLean, was selected yesterday by half a dozen members of the Monument Com and the Park Board. President Samuel McMillan of the Park Board, after considerable consultation and measurements by all, drove cuare post at the spot selected, which is on the hill back of the monument, about opposite the centre of 125th street. This position will make the flag visible from up and down the Hudson, and from Hell Gate, as well as from Riverside Drive, and from all high points in the city. The pole will not be of steel as at first suggested, but of pine in two sections, 65 and 85 feet long. It will be set in concrete, with four fron braces, and will be between 138 and 140 feet high. The flag to fly from this pole will be larger than 35 by 50 feet, and is being made from special materials in Lowell, Mass. The pole and flag will be ready within ten days.

The Committee on Naval Affairs has issued a cular letter to merchant marine and vacht sweers, inviting them to designate vessels to participate in the water parade, which will be reviewed by President McKinley, and can, with proper cooperation, be made a most important feature of the Grant day celebration. Applica-tions should be sent to F. G. Osborn, 8 Broadparticipate in the water parade, which will be reviewed by President McKinley, and can, with proper cooperation, be made a most important feature of the Grant day celebration. Applications should be sent to F. G. Osborn, 8 Broadway, during the present week.

It is proposed that all marines and sailors marching in the land parade be disembarked at one pier, and march to the points at which they are to form. Probably twenty-one companies of fity each will be detailed from the fleet, including three each from the New York, Indiana, and Massachusetts, two each from the Amphitrite and ferror. There will probably be a detail of 200 marines from the fleet to join that from the larracks, and a special detail is to be arranged later. The landing will be made probably at East Thirty-fourth street, and after the parade all will embark near 130th street.

An inspection of docks and piers at which it is proposed to make landings was made yesterday by Gens. Dodge and Butterfield, Col. Corbin, Major Roe, and Chief of Police Comlin, who in the Gen. Meigs steamed up the East River, through the Harlem, and down the Hudson.

Original estimates for defraying the expenses of the Grant Day celebration have proved to be nadequate, and several of the sub-committees having in charge the arrangements of the details have been hampered by the limited amount of money allowed them by the Committee on Apportionment. Yesterday a bill authorizing the city to appropriate $25,000 was prepared by the Corporation Counsel, approved by Mayor Strong, and sent to Albany. It is expected that it will be passed by the Legislature for expenses of the National Guard.

The Committee on Naval Affairs at its recent meetings has been compelled to pursue a policy of retrenchment and to limit the scope of its is addition to the $50,000 appropriated by the city and the $25,000 given by the Legislature for expenses of the ontemplated plans. At a meeting of the Committee on Naval Affairs held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday afternoon arrangements were made for a reception, with music and dancing, at the Hotel Waldorf on the evening of April 28, to be given to the officers of the national and foreign vessels and the guests of the city, including the President and his Cabinet, the Diplomatic Corps, and the visiting Governors. In view of the necessarily limited number of tickets which can be issued, their distribution is restricted to the General Committee, each member of which has the privilege of taking one gentleman's and two ladies' tickets. The price of tickets will be $5 sach. If the bill which was sent to Albany yesterday secures an immediate passage the plans for the ball will be particularly claborate.

Mayor Strong has received a letter from the Earl of Aberdeen, Governor-General of Canada, who, on account of the meeting of Parliament and other official duties, cannot be present here on Grant Day. Word has been received that Jesse Grant lett Los Angeles, Cal., for New York last night.

At a special meeting of the Park Board, held in the office of Commissioner Cruger yesterday, it was determined to issue permits for the erection of platforms or stands for the Grant Monument dedication on the easterly side of Riverside Drive, at points to be designated by the Commissioners. All persons who apply for these permits must give a guarantee that no greater charge than 50 cents shall be made for each seat, and each applicant must deposit a certified check in amount equal to five cents a square foot of area occupied by each stand. The deposit is to cover any damage which may be done to the lawns, which damage must be made good by the owners of the stands. The Park Commissioners expect that stands so erected will seat lettween 25,000 and 30,000 persons. ffairs held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel vester pal Stands at the Grant Monument.

The firm of S. McMillan & Co, has given up the entract for erecting the municipal stands at the Grant monument, and the work will probably be case by John T. Brady, contractor for the mon sment, whose bid was next lowest. Mr. Mc-dillan said yesterday that when he made his bid he understood the money for the work was in the hands of the Monument Committee, but when he learned that the work was to be done by the city and paid for by the city he promptly withdraw. The work was continued yesterday by McMillan's men, but it will be turned over to Brady to-day.

Prisoner Authory Not Living in Luxury.

Acting Warden Mulvaney of the Ludlow reet jail positively denies a story which was published in the newspapers of this city several ays ago to the effect that D. Edgar Anthony, a civil prisoner in the jail, was living in luxury there. He says that Anthony is one of the poor-est prisoners in the jail, and Anthony himself has sent a statement to The Sun in which he says that the story is a fabrication. He has no money, he says, and is compelled to live on prison fare.

THE BUFFALO GNAT.

What Entomologists Here Say About the In sect That Is Killing Cattle in Texas.

From Texas comes a report that a small insect called by the cowboys the "buffalo gnat" is killing horses and cattle in the region of At-A high wind, the despatches say, has brought these insects in swarms, which have attacked horses, mules, and other live stock, poisoning many so badly as to cause death in a few hours. One report ascribes the presence of the insects to the subsidence of the overflow of the river, while another states that they were probably blown down from their regular habitat further north. This report says that the pests had not previously made their appearance for fifteen years.

No adequate description of the flies has been given from which entomologists here could classify them with any degree of certainty. Several experts seen by a SUN reporter yesterday agreed, however, in conjecturing that the gnat eral experts seen by a SUN reporter yesterday agreed, however, in conjecturing that the gnat referred to is a species of large and poisonous mosquito, and that the insects have bred in large swarms early this year from a variety of circumstances, chiefly the great moisture, followed by continued warm weather. From the fact that the castle die soon after the attacks of the flies, it would seem that they are not gadfies or bottlies, the evil effects of whose attacks are felt when the eggs they deposit incubate.

There is no winged insect on this continent, the bite or sting of which is fatal to man or beast, unless the victim is attacked by immense numbers of the insects. There are cases on record of men being stung to death by wasps, and even fatally poisoned by mosquitoes. On Napeague Beach, which joins Montauk Point to the rest of Long Island, horses have been so poisoned during the five-mile trip across the beach that they died shortly after. This was not from any special virulence of the mosquitoes' venom, but because there are countless millions of the insects bred in the small brackish pools that lie between the sand-hummocks. In the same way, it is doubtless to the thickness of the swarms in Texas, and not to any special poisoning quality of the insects, that the death of the horses and cattle is due.

"If the Texas gnat is the insect I suppose it to be," said one of the entomologists connected with the Natural History Museum yesterday, "its prevalence is probably caused by peculiar at-

"If the Texas gnat is the insect I suppose it to be," said one of the entomologists connected with the Natural History Museum yesterday, "its prevalence is probably caused by peculiar atmospheric conditions. Against these pests cattle and horses have practically no protection. A few hundred of them on an animal will so torment as well as poison him that the combined effect frequently produces death. Various preventives are used. The cattle are put into sheds around which green brush fires, causing a great deal of smoke, are built. Another method is to rub them with a vegetable ointment containing olls which repel the insects. Probably the first cold wind will put an end to the trouble.

PICKPOCKET DELAYS A FUNERAL The Other Mourners Wait While One Gets the Alleged Thief Locked Up.

An alleged pickpocket delayed a funeral yesterday morning at St. Veronica's Church in Christopher street. The funeral services were those of the late Mrs Mary Lawler, and in one of the rear seats was Mrs. Mary Green of 79 Perry street, the godmother of the dead woman. Im-mediately behind her sat a smooth-faced old man one present.

Just before the close of the services the stran ger left the church. Mrs. Green quickly fol ger left the cultren. Mrs. Green quicaly for-lowed, much to the surprise of those present. Once outside Mrs. Green caught the man by the cost and demanded that he return her purse, which she said he had stolen from her jacket pocket. The old man denied the accusation. "I had my purse in the church, I know," said ahe, "and no one but you were near enough to take it."

ane, "and no one but you were near enough to take it."

A policeman came up at that moment and Mrs. Green insisted on the man's arrest, although on his being searched no purse was found. The policeman said she would have to accompany him to the station house and make a complaint. At this juncture the funeral party came from the church and Mrs. Green consulted with the mourners. All advised her to make the complaint and said they would wait until she returned. Half an hour later Mrs. Green joined her friends at the church and the funeral party started for the cemetery.

The prisoner said he was John Donoghue, a plasterer, 63 years old, but refused his address. Later in the day he was arraigned in the Jefferson Market Police Court and held for trial in $1,000 bonds.

WOMAN KILLED IN A RUNAWAY.

Miss Jounto Keating the Victim of the Ocean Parkway Accident.

Miss Jennie Keating, aged 25 years, the daughter of John C. Keating of 68 Downing street, this city, was the victim of the fatal run away accident on the Ocean Parkway in Brooklyn on Tuesday night, and James Cotter, aged 30 a clerk in a hat store at 20 Fourth street Brooklyn, was her companion.

The couple went down the road for a drive in a buggy in the evening, intending to go to Coney Island, but turned back when they were about half way to the beach. The horse, a spirited animal, when near King's Highway shied at the clang of a bicyclist's bell and then dashed off in a runaway. Mr. Cotter lost hold of the reins as the horse took the plunge, and in lean-ing forward over the horse's back to grasp them he fell over the dashboard and rolled to the he fell over the dashboard and rolled to the ground.

Miss Keating, whose screams could be heard by the people in the hotels along the driveway, stood up in the buggy and finally fell over the seat to the ground. She struck on her head and was picked up unconscious and carried to Hischoff's hotel. Prompt medical aid was procured, but she died in a few hours after a brief interval of consciousness. Her father, mother, and sister did not reach the hotel until two hours after her death. Mr. Cotter escaped with a few brulses. The horse was captured after running half a mile. Miss Keating's death resulted from internal hemorrhage caused by her violent fall, and not from a fracture of the skull as was at first supposed.

Mr. Cotter and the young woman had long been friends, and frequently went out driving together. Miss Keating's family were fully aware of her movements on Tuesday night.

GRANT OUSTS ANDREWS.

PUT IN ROOSEVELT'S PLACE BY HIS OWN FOTE.

Mr. Andrews Has Heretofore Acted as Police and Chairman in the President's Abse -Grant, as President Pro Tem., Gets Ou of the Hole He Got In as Commis When Commissioners Grant and Parker en-sered the Police Board vesterday they found Mr. Andrews in President Roosevelt's place. The clerk had started to read the minutes They exchanged glances. "Lol. on a moment," said Mr. Parker. "I think we had better begin by electing a Chairman pro tem. I move the election of Col. Grant." Mr. Andrews told the clerk to call the roll. Mr. Parker voted are, Mr. Andrews no. Col. Grant did not vots. He smiled when he saw the result.

"I guess there is a tie here, and I'll have to break it," he said, and voted for himself. Mr. Andrews vacated the chair without a word. and Col. Grant took it. As President he pulled himself deftly out of the hole he had made for himself as a Commissioner, by announcing that he would sign re quisitions as a member of the Repairs and Suprlies Committee. Last week he fiatly refused to do so unless Commissioner Andrews, the other member, got off the committee. "I don't care what the board does," were his words. "I won't serve." Yesterday he announced that he would serve "with pleasure."

What had perhaps induced the Commissioner to say this was recorded on a scrap of paper that had been meant for presentation to he board yesterday, but which, for cause, didn't come up. Upon the acrap there were three entries, one a typewritten resolution, the other two addends, asides as it were, in the handwriting of Col. Grant and of President Roose veit. The typewritten resolutions were drawn by Commissiner Andrews after the last meeting. They set forth that, as requisitions were hourly heaping up, and supplies much needed, the President should be authorized as a special member of the Committee of Repairs and Supplies to sign the same until further orders, one member of the committee having done his duty. The names of Mesers, Roosevelt and Andrews were appended, and a space was left blank for a third Commissioner's name. In the space was written this:

"The President of, the Board of Police should designate some member of the Committee on Repairs and Supplies to act as Chairman of the Committee on Repairs and Supplies. This resolution is unnecessary.

This evidently was soo much for the patience of Mr. Roosevelt. There was no room under the Colonel's entry, but across the paper ran these words in the President's homely hand: "Commissioner Grant's resignation has not been accepted. He is still Chairman of the committee, and if he would perform his duty there would be no need of this resolution.

But of all this nothing was said. The more, perhaps, was thought of it. plies Committee. Last week he fintly refused to do so unless Commissioner Andrews, the committee, and if he would perform his duty there would be no need of this resolution.

But of all this nothing was said. The more, perhaps, was thought of it.

The meeting pessed quietly enough. The board asked the Corporation Counsel to appeal the case of Policeman Howard, who was dismissed for sitting down on post, and reinstated by the Appellate Division of the Sugreme Court because it is not specifically set orth in the rules that sitting down on post is a breach of discipline. Commissioner Parker objected to this as preposterous. If the ruling were accepted it would be necessary to specify in the minutest detail everything a policeman must not do. He thought it self-evident that a man could not properly patrol his post sitting down, and the board agreed. The West Twentesth street police station was condemned by the Health Board because the old plumbing was bad. Comptroller Fitch forwarded a notice from the Building Department to the effect that the new station house in Charles street violates the law in having wooden beams on the first floor.

"That," said Col. Grant with a shrug, "is one of the finest station houses in the world." Both notices were referred.

Col. Grant presented the survey for a new station house in the Second precinct with an offer of a site on Washington street for $50.000. Mr. Andrews objected that the water would rise in the cellar down there. This Col. Grant admitted, but said that it was cheaper to take a $50,000 site and raise the cellar in the district where the ropulation is than to pay a quarter of a million for one on high ground. The site of the present station house in Church street is worth the latter sum, if not more, and by selling it and buying the Washington street site the department would have $200,000 for new station houses in the new annexed district. Laid over.

"That is right," said Commissioner Grant;
"we will adopt it, and then later on, if we have the money, we will pay our share. It is worth it." The other Commissioners voted age.

JOHN TRAVERS'S FALL.

Would Have Cost His Life but for the Foresight of Sergeant Walsh.

John Travers, 41 years old, while delirious with pneumonia, fell from the fourth story window of his home at 221 Sackett street, Brooklyn, early yesterday morning, and would probably have been instantly killed had it not been James M. Walsh of the Butler street station. Travers lived with Mrs. Lavinia Carroll, his aunt, who on Monday night had to call in James Ford, another occupant of the house, to help her in restraining her delirious nephew, who made frequent rushes toward the window. Early in the morning, when Travers seemed to have the morning, when Travers seemed to have quieted somewhat, Ford started out to inform the police of the man's alarming condition. Meeting Sergeant Walsh he remarked: "You're just the man I want. There is a crazy man trying to jump out of the fourth story window of my house, and I have been struggling with him all night."

On reaching the Sackett street house they saw Travers dangling from the fourth-story window and heard the glass in the window below crash as his feet struck it. Sergeant Walsh grasped each of Ford's hands in his own and braced himself so that they might catch the man as he fell-each of Ford's hands in his own and braced him-self so that they might catch the man as he fell. In less than a minute Travers lost his hold and came down. In his descent he struck the wooden cornice over the store on the first floor, and next landed on the staiwart shoulders of Sergeant Walsh, and rolling off, struck the sidewalk on his head with such force that the scalp was laid bare for several inches. At the Long Island Col-lege Hospital it was found that three of his fin-gers were broken.

The Buffale Calf Bend.

The buffalo calf that was born on Sunda; morning died some time before daybreak yesterday and was found in the inclosure at Van Cortlandt Park when the keepers went out to feed t in the morning. The calf was weak from its birth, and an effort was made to raise it on a bottle. The calf was the first one born in the park. Another was born on Monday. Under the terms of the contract made with Mr. Austin Cor-bin when he intrusted the herd to the city, every fourth calf born in the herd is to become the property of the city, but no provision is made in regard to calves that die. It is thought that no account will be taken of those that die.

A WOMAN'S OPINION

weighs with every man. It is possible that some men pretend to ignore it. But your wife's taste is bound to influence your own judgment of the new Spring Suit. Bring her with you, and while you are trying on a new suit let her look through the Children's Department.

Our Children's Department is our pride, just as your children are your pride. We have a beautiful array of novelties for the little ones. There are the fancy Sailor, Middy and Admiral suits, the two and three piece suits, and an endless line of novelties in Boys' and Children's hats and caps. The prices are so low as to be a secondary consideration.
